David Martin Carter Mentor Award

American Skin Association is seeking nominations for its annual David Martin Carter Mentor Award which honors a member of the dermatology community who embodies those characteristics of the late David Martin Carter, MD, PhD that made him an inspiration to many dermatologists/investigators, colleagues and medical students throughout the world. The award and an honorarium will be presented at the Society for Investigative Dermatology annual meeting in May 2011, the professional organization with which Dr. Carter was most closely involved. Individuals and academic departments are encouraged to nominate candidates meeting the following criteria:

1. Superior achievement in clinical and/or basic dermatological research.
2. Long-term involvement as a visionary developer of clinical and/or basic science research fellows.
3. Pattern of long-term career advice and support for colleagues, including former research fellows.
4. Personal characteristics meriting the trust, respect, and emulation of colleagues.

A letter summarizing the individual's accomplishments relevant to the award criteria, accompanied by a curriculum vitae and list of selected trainees and others who were mentored by the nominee, should be submitted no later than Wednesday, December 1, 2010 to:
